Within a structured improvisational setting we will develop heightened sensitivity within the body to create a stronger dialogue between physicality and imagination. In the first hour our goal will be to expand our own movement vocabulary to allow for new textures and finer details while strengthening physical coordination and creativity. The following hour we will investigate how to use our personal discoveries inside of phrase work and to generate our own choreography. Over the four days, we will work together to build something new that reflects the experience as a whole.
